WHERE TO EAT AND DRINK IN JACKSON

This cowboy town has an elevated dining scene that rivals most small cities.

Bin22 is a restaurant that shares space with a small, high-end wine and beer market. It specializes in Spanish and Italian meats and cheeses and other sharable dishes. You can buy a can or six-pack of beer at the market and drink it at your table, which makes this one of the most affordable après options in town.

The Bistro draws inspiration from Parisian-style neighborhood brasseries. French entrees and accompaniments, like duck confit and pommes frites, are served in a warm and intimate setting. The Bistro also has a raw bar with oysters, shrimp, and tartare provisions.
