Affordable Food and Drink Here

If you're on the mountain or staying in Teton Village, prices for food and drink aren't cheap, so you'll want to know where to look, and you can always pack a PBJ in your pocket. Start with a cup of high-quality espresso from the take-out window at Overview Coffee, next to the Mango Moose. The Bodega, at the gas station across the parking lot from the team in Teton Village, has a food truck out front and grab-and-go breakfast sandwiches and burritos. Mid-day or after skiing, hit up Yardsale inside the Snake River Lodge for a $9 hot dog or tacos, or the Mangy Moose, one of the most classic après ski bars ever, which has $6 pizza by the slice. For fuel on the mountain, ride the tram to the top of Rendezvous Peak, take in the view of the Tetons from the observation deck, then pop into Corbet's Cabin for an $8.25 house-made waffle with brown-sugar butter or Nutella. (Trust us, it's worth every penny.)
