

Outside

The Best Après-Ski in Jackson Hole, Wyoming

By: Graham Averill Jan 11, 2016

Jackson Hole Resort is billed as the hardest inbounds skiing in the United States, and the après-ski scene can get just as rowdy as Corbets Couloir. Take the entire Jackson Hole Valley, from Teton Village at the base of the resort to the town of Jackson 12 miles south, and you've got choices ranging from crusty saloons to late-night dance parties to white-tablecloth joints.

Cheap Eats: Bodega

This burrito/sandwich shop recently took over an old gas station in Teton Village, offering tasty grab-and-go options from wild boar salami sandwiches to chorizo burritos, all of which are under $8. Go ahead and add a “sloshy,” a vodka-based grapefruit frozen drink.