This gem of a destination is a gateway to Grand Teton National Park, Bridger-Teton National Forest and, just a bit farther to the north, Yellowstone National Park. While the high season might be summertime with its verdant valleys and bountiful sunshine, don't overlook the winter season in Jackson Hole, Wyoming.

Whether it's your first trip or you are a repeat visitor to this special place, there are plenty of local activities to keep you and your kiddos busy – even if you don't ski.

Where to stay and spa

So many properties are family-friendly and pet-friendly in the Jackson Hole area. The atmosphere is relaxed and laid back just about everywhere, so you really can't go wrong with any of these standout properties that offer services and amenities to make for a memorable and relaxing stay.

Teton Village

A boutique property at the base of Jackson Hole Mountain Resort with 132 rooms, Hotel Terra is the first LEED-certified hotel in Teton Village. The hotel boasts a full-service spa to relax after a day of skiing and a rooftop outdoor hot tub to soothe tired muscles. Enjoy house-made pasta and brick oven pizzas in the on-site restaurant, Il Villaggio Osteria. Be sure to save room for dessert and order the decadent Nutella cheesecake (or take it to go for later).
