Where to Eat and Drink in Teton Village

Keep it easy and casual at the base of the mountain, where you can find tasty menus that won't break the bank.

Bodega is an all-in-one gas station, convenience store, wine shop, butcher shop, and grab-and-go cafe that's become a local hot spot for everything from pre-ski breakfast burritos to après "sloshies" as well as beers and brats. For the uninitiated, sloshies are a Jackson Hole specialty and are basically a boozy slushie. Its sister, the Bodega food truck, sells fried chicken sandwiches, tacos, and other comfort foods.
