GO WEST

These five towns will leave you well rested and well fed after your summer mountain adventures. BY JILL ROBINSON

JACKSON HOLE, WYOMING

With its front-row view of the majestic Teton Range, Jackson Hole inspires adventure. Surrounded on three sides by the Bridger-Teton National Forest and just 60 miles south of Yellowstone, this region and the Serengeti are among the few complete ecosystems on the planet. Naturalist-led wildlife excursions or even hikes into the backcountry make it clear why this is a special place. Stay near town at the Snow King Hotel or luxe Amangani resort or discover Grand Teton National Park from your home base at Jenny Lake Lodge. Jackson's culinary and cocktail booms have also yielded standouts such as Local, Trio, Bin 22 and The Kitchen.
