Come Hungry: Jackson Hole's Impressive Culinary Scene

One of Jackson Hole's most delightful surprises is just how seriously this mountain town takes its food.

Much of that reputation can be credited to restaurateur Gavin Fine and Fine Dining Restaurant Group, whose collection of restaurants has helped transform Jackson into a genuine culinary destination. Start at The Bistro, conveniently located inside The Cloudveil, where Parisian-inspired dining, fresh oysters, seasonal dishes, and thoughtfully crafted cocktails create an atmosphere that's both polished and wonderfully relaxed. For contemporary cuisine with Asian influences, The Kitchen delivers beautifully presented dishes featuring fresh seafood, meats, and seasonal ingredients. Wine lovers should make time for Bin22, an intimate combination of wine shop and tapas bar where sharing small plates and discovering an interesting bottle is practically mandatory.

Meanwhile, Il Villaggio Osteria in Teton Village serves comforting Italian favorites, including house-made pasta and pizza, in a cozy mountain setting.
