

SKICANADA .ORG

Downhill Delivery

By Louise Hudson

With delivery dominating the food, restaurant, and retail industries at the moment, the time-saving trend is gradually infiltrating to ski areas. Pizza delivery has always proliferated, especially in resorts peppered with self-catering accommodation. But ski businesses are branching out to deliver more creative meals, groceries, wines, ski/ride rental equipment, and all the bulky things that are difficult for families to bring such as cribs, cots, strollers, highchairs, and toys.

Specializing in fancy fare, the Fine Dining Restaurant Group at Jackson Hole pairs its private wine-buying program with food from Bistro Catering for intimate in-home dining in rental houses and condos. “To begin, our on-staff sommeliers chat with the host to gauge which wines they like and then handpick a selection of unique wines to be showcased,” says Director of Communications, Kendra Alessandro. “After that, our sommelier consults with our catering team to prepare a perfectly paired menu. On the evening of the event, our chefs and expert vintner team prepare, serve and present each delectable course – all on site in the host’s desired location. We bring everything from start to finish, clean up and go home at the end of the evening. No mess or fuss for the guests and a truly five-star experience all around.”