

THE NATIONAL PARKS CROWDING CRISIS

Eat Bravely

Outside

+ The Call of the Candy-Ass

By Nick Offerman

Gear Up for the Apocalypse

Jackets from the Future

The Between Lands

Seven national parks, 1,270 miles, and six new base camps: we've come up with the ultimate western road-trip itinerary—but not for the reasons you might think. Yes, these parks are among our most iconic, but it's the journeys linking them that provide the greatest opportunity for adventure. From our favorite quick-hop detours to the best spots to après, here's how to make the most of this summer and avoid the crowds.

By Graham Averill

The Walk of Life
Founders Sarah and Nathan Leung

ROUTE:
Jackson, Wyoming,
to Moab, Utah
[480 MILES]

EAT AND DRINK: The Bistro
At this yummy spot in Jackson, located within the new Cloudveil Hotel facing the town square, you'll find elevated French fare without the pretension. There's a great raw bar, but save room for hearty entrées like the bison tenderloin with huckleberry sauce.

CAN'T-MISS GUIDE TO Cooking

"I AM THE GREATEST!"
Does Positive Self-Talk Make You Faster?

Cheryl Strayed and the Wild Hike That Changed Everything

$6.99US $7.99CAN 08

7 25274 39034 2

ADAMAGUST 2022